'Le Bolle' Gavi Frizzante 2015, La Mesma

37

region: Piedmont grape: Cortese abv: 11.5%

An organic, sparkling Gavi, crisp and refreshing with notes of cucumber and fresh cut grass.

'Sottoriva' NV, Col Fondo, Malibran

42

region: Veneto grape: Glera abv: 11%

Made using metodo ancestrale – like in Champagne, the second fermentation happens in the bottle, but unlike Champagne the lees (yeast) are not removed, giving the wine a cloudy appearance; delicate biscuit flavours with soft bubbles – a brilliant example of an ancient winemaking technique.

'Cuvee Brut' NV, Wiston Estate

region: West Sussex grape: Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier abv: 12%

This is a charming English fizz in extremely limited supply. It is made using the method and grapes traditional in Champagne. The combination of tiny yields and the chalk-rich West Sussex soil gives it purity, focus and elegance.

'Bollicine Rose' NV, Serafini & Vidotto

region: Veneto grape: Pinot Nero, Chardonnay abv: 12.5%

A very pale, delicate, rather special rose where the quality of the winemaker and the grapes are most definitely reflected in the glass. A delicious aperitivo, bone dry with poise and an elegant sparkle.

White

- Garganega 'Torre del Falasco' 2016, Valpantena 22
region: Veneto grape: Garganega abv: 13%
Straw yellow in colour, fresh notes of white flowers and citrus fruit, excellent with fish.
- Fiano 2015, Masseria Bianca 26 region: Apulia grape: Fiano abv: 13%
A breezy seaside wine. Light, fragrant and very refreshing.
- Vermentino 2016, Antonio Camillo 29
region: Tuscany grape: Vermentino abv: 13%
A very refreshing Vermentino, aromatic with bright, clean acidity. Aromas of gooseberry and magnolia with notes of shaved almonds, lime and sundried Mediterranean herbs.
- 'Consono' Verdicchio Classico 2015, Accadia 33
region: Marche grape: Verdicchio abv: 13%
This is aromatic and crisp, high in acidity, notes of green apple skin and lime, with an elegant juiciness and a waxy finish. Angelo Accadia farms with biodynamic principles, and his beautiful vineyards in the hills of the Marche produce a delicious, affordable Verdicchio.
- 'Maresa' Falanghina 2015, Masseria Starnali 36
region: Campania grape: Falanghina abv: 12%
Grown near the Roccamonfina volcano, this Falanghina is unusual and delicious. Clayey notes on the nose, with hints of muscat and magnolia, it is elegantly balanced between some chewy notes of grapefruit, white peach, and bitter apples. The finish offers a salty tang and a fleshy mouthfeel, almost like bubblegum.
- 'I Fiori' 2016, Pala 36
region: Sardinia grape: Vermentino abv: 14%
Pretty, delicate, light and floral. Pale yellow in colour and little sweeter than a Vermentino from the North of Italy, this is a brilliant aperitif.
- Semplicemente Vino Bianco 2015, Cascina degli Ulivi 37
region: Piedmont grape: Cortese abv: 13.5%
Stefano Bellotti has been a pioneer of biodynamic farming in Italy since 1984. Straw-yellow in colour, this is nutty and buttery on the nose; tones of lily on the palate, with hints of quince, bitter almond and walnut. An extremely versatile white, with great minerality from the red clay soils of Novi Ligure.
- 'Tradizionale' Vernaccia di San Gimignano 2014, Montenedoli 39
region: Tuscany grape: Vernaccia abv: 13.5%
Elisabetta Faguioli has run her estate organically for 50 years and still runs a tight ship. Her Tradizionale is a straw-yellow white with aromas of soft herbs and blanched almonds. It is vibrant and salty, almost tangy, due to the calcareous sediments left by the close by Ligurian sea.
- Vermentino 2015, Il Torchio 40
region: Liguria grape: Vermentino abv: 12.5%
A young and fresh Vermentino, where the sandy soils of Colli di Luni and the breeze from the nearby Mediterranean sea combine to produce a wine with delightful sea air savouriness, clementine citrus, unripe apricot and sea purslane flavours. A gentle, natural wine with a refreshing, bright acidity.

White continued

'Terre Silvate' 2015, La Distesa

43

region: Marche grape: Verdicchio, Trebbiano, Malvasia abv: 12.5%

A different, more complex expression of the Verdicchio grape than the Accadia version above - oily, with a honeyed, hazelnut richness layered with firm lime and clementine citrus flavours. It works brilliantly with salumi, crab, fish or white meat.

'Ivag' 2015, Cascina degli Ulivi

45

region: Piedmont grape: Cortese abv: 13.5%

Stefano Bellotti is not just playing with the letters 'Gavi' after having lost the DOC appellation, but with the rules of the game altogether. Although 100% Cortese, his hazy 'Ivag', instead of the famously crisp, astringent white, is rich, brioche like, with notes of spiced, bitter apples, bruised quince, sultanas, and a fresh undertone of orange blossom. An instant favourite from one of our dearest producers.

Roero Arneis 2015, Valfaccenda

region: Piedmont grape: Arneis abv: 13%

This is a promising expression of Arneis, an indigenous yet little known grape from Piedmont, often referred to as Nebbiolo Bianco. This natural wine relies on its finesse: while the nose notes fresh pear, the palate savours a rich, zesty wine that translates perfectly the sumptuous land of Roero, where Luca Faccenda and his family have lived and made wine for generations.

Gavi Riserva 2014, La Raia

region: Piedmont grape: Cortese abv: 13%

This was an instant favourite and like no other Gavi we've had before. Delicate and fragrant, with whiffs of blossom and pear skin. Biscuity notes on the palate, with seductive pear drop, green melon and lemon pith. Something flinty on the finish makes this Gavi incredibly moreish and a pleasure to drink.

Manzoni Bianco Fontanasanta 2015, Elisabetta Foradori

region: Trentino grape: Manzoni Bianco abv: 12%

From the foothills of the Dolomites, the Manzoni grape is a cross between Riesling and Pinot Bianco. Biodynamically farmed, with very little intervention from one of the most important, and certainly one of our favourite winemakers in Italy. Extremely delicate on the nose, with notes of honeysuckle and acacia blossom; the palate is fuller, textured like peach skin, with yellow apple, quince, blanched almond and honey.

Bianchetto 2015, Le Coste

region: Lazio grape: Procanico, Malvasia, Moscato abv: 12%

This has seen a short maceration on the skins which lends it persistence and character. Completely natural, it sees no fining or filtering and reveals the salty notes from the volcanic soils the young vines are planted on. Fresh saline on the nose; with more marine minerality on the palate with notes of apricot, sourdough, honeysuckle and orange blossom.

'Kreuth' Chardonnay 2015, Cantina Terlano

region: Alto Adige grape: Chardonnay abv: 13.5%

From the iconic Cantina Terlano, which was founded in 1893, these Chardonnay grapes were harvested and sorted by hand, then aged on the lees, in oak, for 8 months. Straw-yellow in colour, with tropical fruit on the nose; the palate is creamy and unctuous, almost like a brioche - with notes of citrus peel and a little salty tang on the finish.

Trebbiano d'Abruzzo 2012, Emidio Pepe region: Abruzzo grape: Trebbiano abv: 12%

This is one of Italy's cult wines, the grapes are harvested by hand, crushed by foot, fermented in cement tank with natural yeasts, and hand-bottled without any sulphites. Aromas of orange peel and honeydew with a touch of fresh rosemary and green olives. The palate is full with refreshing acidity and a long, savoury finish.

Pink

Lagrein rosato 2015, Mezzacorona 29

region: Trentino grape: Lagrein abv: 12%

This is a pale, elegant and refreshing rose with soft, delicate fruit and floral tones.

Canaiuolo 2016, Montenedoli 45

region: Tuscany grape: Canaiolo abv: 13%

This pale rose was made using Canaiuolo, one of Chianti's iconic grapes. Predominant notes of fresh berries, pink peppercorns and lavender with a salty finish - Elisabetta's trademark, due to the estate's closeness to the sea. Sprightly and enticing, this is a perfect aperitif, on its own as well as with antipasti.

Skin-contact White

'SP68' 2016, Arianna Occhipinti 55

region: Sicily grape: Zibbibo, Albanello abv: 12%

Arianna's winery observes biodynamic principles: the wine ferments on natural yeasts and remains unfiltered. 7 days on the skins for this golden-coloured white, with aromas, going from olive to lychee, notes of honeycomb, grapefruit and lemon pith, biting acidity, a touch of oregano. A compelling white, that captures why we are excited about Sicilian wines.

'Notti di Luna' 2013, Ca' De Noci 56

region: E. Romagna grape: Moscato, Spergola, Malvasia abv: 11.5%

Light orange with pink highlights, this is enticing and aromatic. Whiffs of Mirabelle plums and nespoli; notes of grapefruit peel and lilies. An assertive, balanced and structured blend of acidity from the Spergola grape, the fragrance of the Malvasia, and the softness of the Moscato. 2000 bottles made.

'Sophia' Fiano 2015, Cantina Giardino 58

region: Campania grape: Fiano abv: 13.5%

Antonio and Daniela's 80-year-old vine Fiano was aged in amphora, from clay found in the vineyard. Half a year spent on skins and another six months in chestnut barrels lend this wine its pleasant duality: aromatic on the nose, gripping, and a little sour on the palate, with savoury citrus and honey. Textured, wild, unfiltered, this is both fresh and enveloping.

'Don Chisciotte' 2015, Pierluigi Zampaglione 59

region: Campania grape: Fiano abv: 12.5%

The poor, windswept soil and extreme temperatures help develop the most striking expression of the Fiano grape we've had over the years. Skin maceration gives this wine its bronze, green hues and depth of texture. Very expressive, with aromas of white pepper, fennel and pine; tangy and salty on the palate.

'Ageno' 2011, La Stoppa 60 region: Emilia Romagna grape: Malvasia, Ortrugo, Trebbiano abv: 13.5%

On the nose, enticing notes of jasmine and sweet apricot. On the palate, think olive brine and juniper at first, then spiced apple and black tea, with supple tannins. Bottled unfiltered, it is aged for two years before release. A prodigious introduction to Italian orange wines.

'Egesta' 2015, Aldo Viola 63

region: Sicily grape: Grillo abv: 12.5%

Aldo is an enthusiastic biodynamic producer from North West Sicily. His take on Grillo is like no other: unfiltered, heartfelt, with never ending aromas. Deeply intriguing, from its golden colour to its doughy nose, this is enveloping and chewy with hints of candied citrus fruit and hazelnut. 1200 bottles made.

'Ograde' 2013, Skerk 69

region: Friuli grape: Vitovska, Malvasia, Sauvignon Blanc, Pinot Grigio abv: 13.5%

Made on the border with Slovenia, this is complex and delicious, with mesmerising aromas of rose, jasmine, orange blossom and notes of grapefruit zest and apricot. Bone dry, with soft tannins and a smokey finish. It inevitably takes centre stage on the table and rightly so. Only 2000 bottles made.

Pinot Grigio 2015, Radikon 73

region: Friuli grape: Pinot Grigio abv: 13%

An outstanding wine made by Stanko's son, Sasa. Hazy magenta colour, complex and savoury with aromas of wild strawberry and cherry. Delicious in its youth, it will change your mind about Pinot Grigio.

Red

- Rosso Terre Siciliane 2014, Il Barroccio 22
region: Sicily grape: Nero d'Avola abv: 13%
Aromas of ripe dark cherry and warm spices, smooth tannins and a vibrant, refreshing finish.
- Sangiovese Toscana 2015, Caparzo 26 region: Tuscany grape: Sangiovese abv: 13%
The grapes here are mainly but not exclusively from Montalcino. So think baby Brunello rather than Chianti: dark, sweet blackcurrant and plum character.
- Primitivo 2015, La Masseria 27
region: Apulia grape: Primitivo abv: 14.5%
Aromas of black olive, notes of baked, dark berry fruit and sweet spices.
- Bardolino 2016, Raval 28
region: Veneto grape: Corvina, Rondinella Molinara, Negrara abv: 12.5% Grown on the edge of Lake Garda, this wine is very bright and pale and could almost be a rose. Biting raspberry fruit and a hint of white pepper on the finish.
- 'Sacromonte' 2009, Castello di Potentino 33
region: Tuscany grape: Sangiovese abv: 14%
From the sumptuous Potentino castle in the heart of Tuscany, this light ruby red offers a soft, natural take on the well-known Sangiovese grape - elegant and mineral, fresh and full of bright red fruit.
- 'Pipoli' 2014, Vigneti del Vulture 34 region: Basilicata grape: Aglianico abv: 13%
This is a very deep, round and smooth, full-bodied red. Tobacco and coffee on the nose, it is pleasantly dark, with some tones of blackberries and plums, some spiciness too: think nutmeg and dried herbs.
- 'Di Gino' Rosso Piceno 2015, Fattoria San Lorenzo 35 region: Marche grape: Montepulciano, Sangiovese abv: 13.5% Natalino's ambition is to produce what he calls 'visceral' wines. His unfiltered Rosso Piceno shows an intriguing nose with scents of spiced plums and aromatic herbs. On the palate think biting plums and cherries, with the pleasant bitterness of tobacco leaves, cocoa and flinty notes on the finish. A beautifully pure and balanced wine with enveloping, fine tannins and great softness.
- 'Baglio Rosso' 2015, Terre Siciliane 35
region: Sicily grape: Nero d'Avola abv: 13.5%
An organic Nero d'Avola from Western Sicily, this wine is particularly fresh and juicy with notes of figs and unripe cranberries and raspberries. The palate is defined by its vibrant fragrance and impeccable softness.
- Valpolicella Classico 2014, Carlo Meroni 37 region: Veneto grape: Corvina, Rondinella, Molinara abv: 12.5% Carlo Meroni is an iconic producer whose estate is located on the birth place of Amarone, Sant Ambrogio della Valpolicella. This is a versatile, light, northern Italian red: bright garnet, bursting with redcurrant and raspberry, soft and delicate on the finish.
- Barbera Del Monferrato 2014, Cascina Zerbetta 38 region: Piedmont grape: Barbera abv: 13.5%
Cascina Zerbetta is a small, organic estate in Monferrato, owned and run for over ten years by winemaker Paolo Malfatti. Him and his wife produce very little, working with a very hands-off approach, in other words, with no additions whatsoever. His Barbera is smooth, clean and pure, with great balance between acidity and tannin and notes of dark fruit compote.

Red continued

'Lamie delle Vigne' 2015, Cristiano Guttarolo

42

region: Apulia grape: Primitivo abv: 13.5%

Very little is done in the winery, to let the grape and the land speak for themselves. This wine can be effervescent at first, but after decanting it will express a deep core of wild berries, cassis, black olives and brine on the nose. Notes of savoury fruit and wild herbs on the palate with tenacious velvety tannins.

Chianti 2011, Casale

region: Tuscany grape: Sangiovese, Canaiolo, Colorino abv: 13.5%

Antonio Giglioni believes he must let nature produce the right fruit for his Chianti. Both on his vines and in the cellar, he uses a delicate hand, leaving the wines to ferment slowly in old chestnut barrels. Most of his vintages haven't been bottled yet, as he waits for them to come to express what he deems to be pure Sangiovese. We agree with him that this is the best side of Sangiovese: velvety texture, aromas of leather and wet leaves with notes of dark, sour cherries and bruised, forest strawberries.

'Trebbiolo' 2015, La Stoppa

region: E. Romagna grape: Barbera, Bonarda abv: 13%

Elena Panteleoni's approach is simple: 'nothing is ever added or subtracted from the juice' so as to retain the purity of the grapes, grown on the estates youngest vines. A vibrant blend, lively and fresh with tongue-tickling fruit, silky tannins and great precision.

'Costa Bassa' Valtellina Superiore 2014, Sandro Fay

region: Lombardy grape: Nebbiolo abv: 12.5%

Born in the sandy slopes of the Italian Alps, this wine captures the essence of what makes Valtellina a unique winemaking region. Forest fruits and rose blossoms are key to this fresh and engaging red. Sandro Fay has been producing Nebbiolo for 40 years in a cool, sub-alpine climate, where the grapes slowly ripen until late October, and the wine is aged in oak for a year.

'Nerocapitano' 2015, La Moresca

region: Sicily grape: Frappato abv: 14%

Filippo Rizzo's Frappato shows minty herbaceousness, dusty tannins and impressive length. Pinot Noir fans will warm to its vibrant red cherry character and smoky minerality; Beaujolais lovers will enjoy its vanilla and banana notes. Great with the beef shin ragu, lamb or game.

Teroldego 2014, Elisabetta Foradori

region: Trentino grape: Teroldego abv: 12%

This is the expression of Elisabetta's love and respect for the land of Trentino. Medium-bodied with fleshy red and black fruit, this is an enticing wine thanks to its refined acidity. Foradori is held in very high regard and known to master the Teroldego grape, the only grape she's been producing red wine from for 25 years, as, she says: "I aspire to produce grapes and wine that express the true essence of my land".

'Macchiarossa' 2012, Claudio Cipressi

region: Campobasso grape: Tintilla del Molise abv: 14.5%

Made from organically farmed Tintilla grapes, this is a very fragrant and intense red wine, black berries and sweet spice aromas, hints of sour black cherry, cedar and smoked aubergine.

'Spelt' Montepulciano d'Abruzzo 2013, Fattoria la Valentina region: Abruzzo grape: Montepulciano abv: 13.5%

58

This wine is selected from Valentina's top vineyards, where the vines are at least 25 years old, and it spends 18 months in oak. It is complex, opulent and velvety. Notes of blackcurrant and mulberry harmoniously combine with cocoa and balsamic.

'L'Erta Bosco della Roveta' 2012, Paolo e Lorenzo Marchionni region: Tuscany grape: Cabernet Sauvignon, Sangiovese, Petit Verdot abv: 14%

A fleshy Bordeaux blend with an assertive ruby colour, scents of withered violet and leather, notes of ripe black cherries, smoke and liquorice. It will unveil a long, savoury finish, lavishly tannic and robust.

Red continued

Sagrantino di Montefalco 2011, Perticaia 69

region: Umbria grape: Sagrantino abv: 14.5%

A stonking wine that needs some air but then it really comes alive. Dark, brooding, inky black fruit with very fine, firm tannins.

Pinot Nero 2011, Elisabetta Dalzocchio 69

region: Trentino grape: Pinot Nero abv: 13.0%

A beautiful Pinot Nero from the cool climate of northern Italy. Redcurrant, rusty iron and black tea aromas lead to yoghurt and dried cranberry on the palate, herbaceous smokiness and a slightly astringent finish.

Valtellina Superiore 2013, Dirupi 71

region: Lombardy grape: Nebbiolo abv: 14%

The Dirupi boys have worked hard to establish Valtellina's Nebbiolo, locally called Chiavennasca, on a similar footing to Piedmont's famous reds. This is like a lighter Barbaresco, similarly elegant and gentle. It will curl up in its indulgent tannins and reveal some creamy strawberry and sun-kissed cherry notes.

'Montestefano' Barbaresco 2013, La Ca' Nova 73

region: Piedmont grape: Nebbiolo abv: 14%

This is both an elegant and complex expression of Barbaresco. Ripe red cherries and raspberries pair up with notes of liquorice and dazzling acidity from the Nebbiolo grapes, with a subtle tannic structure. Montestefano is known to be one of the denomination's top single vineyards, where Pietro Rocco and his sons operate with as little intervention as possible.

'Morópio' Amarone della Valpolicella Classico 2012, Antolini 78

region: Veneto grape: Corvina, Corvinone, Rondinella, Molinara abv: 15.5%

Antolini goes by the book: late harvest to ensure ripeness, grapes left all winter to dry into raisins, resulting in this delightfully rich texture and high alcohol content. Black fruit jam on the nose, the palate expresses sour cherry, dark cocoa, and wild flowers. This is a warm and warming red, a little tart and a little sweet, with vivacious tannins.

Brunello di Montalcino 2012, Le Chiuse 90

region: Tuscany grape: Sangiovese abv: 14.5%

Soft purple inky perfumed fruit with a hint of tobacco and marmalade. Incredibly intense, warm, velvety.

Barolo Riserva 2009, Elio Sandri 92

region: Piedmont grape: Nebbiolo abv: 14.5%

This is a wonderful example of a traditional Barolo: strong and complex. Little intervention on the grapes and a long maceration in Slovenian oak lend this Barolo its refinement with aromas of dried raspberry, withered rose and tar, as well as its depth of leathery texture with intense tannins. 3500 bottles made.

'Velluto' Amarone della Valpolicella Classico Riserva 2008, Carlo Meroni 97.5

region: Veneto grape: Corvina, Corvinone, Rondinella, Molinara abv: 16.5%

We've always had a crush on Meroni's Amarone. Not only is it rare, authentic and elegant, it is made with natural yeast and little intervention in the winery, then ages in old barrels for five years. It is everything an Amarone should be: velvety, opulent, with raisins, prunes, a touch of coffee, dried spices and flowers.

'Tettimorra' Barolo 1999, Antica Casa Vinicola Scarpa 102

region: Piedmont grape: Nebbiolo abv: 14%

Scarpa was founded in the 1800's but it gained its reputation in the 1950's for simultaneously perpetuating traditions and introducing new natural wine making methods, such as the absence of temperature control, so as not to interfere with the nature of the process but rather encourage the Nebbiolo grapes to speak for themselves. A distinctive, garnet red wine, with balsamic notes and a predominance of mint, liquorice and anise.
